4. That as per the Scheme of Arrangement, the object, sought to be achieved through the present Scheme of Arrangement is following:

i. YCL and YPL belong to the same group of management and promoters; hence it would be advantageous to combine the activities and operations in a single entity. The amalgamation would create synergies between two complementing companies with similar objective and business line.

ii. Both YPL and YCL has their independent B2B customer's and dealer networks, supply chain and logistic partners, the amalgamation will also provide synergistic linkages besides economies in costs by combining the total business functions in all segments including sales, procurement, logistic activities and the related activities and operations and thus contribute to the profitability of the amalgamated entity.

iii. Economies of scale will play a bigger role as the consolidated entity's operational efficiency will increase, which will in turn allow the merged entity to compete on a larger scale in the industry, thus benefiting the merged entity and the shareholders.

iv. The merger will enable the merged entity to build up a diversified product portfolio in YPL and will assist the merged entity with faster and quicker decision making as both manufacturing and marketing activities are under the same management.

v. The merger will enable the merged entity to get direct access to customers which will give them a better understanding of the market taste and customer requirements. This will assist the merged entity to produce right quality required for different market segment

vi. With YPL having a manufacturing experience of more than 40 years alongwith all the requisite technical know-how to produce in house paper pulp which is a basic input for compostable products, gives YPL an edge over other competitors and YCL a company involved in marketing will result in the merged entity to have all the necessary functions under one roof. It is considered desirable and expedient to consolidate and amalgamate the business of both YCL and YPL so as to bring both the functions will be under the same management, production planning process will become more aligned to the customer needs which will result in a stronger asset base and skills to conduct the business in the emerging environment and to rationalise the costs of business.

vii. The amalgamation will increase the net worth of YPL which would enable it to capitalise upon such improved net worth to enhance the stake holders' value.

viii. The merger will increase financial strength, enhance flexibility and ability to raise larger resources, attract and retain better talent and undertake larger support services related projects.

ix. The merger will result in integration and effective utilisation of resources, which is likely to result in optimising overall shareholder value and improvement in competitive position of YPL as a combined entity.

x. The merger will result in economy of scale, reduction in overheads, administrative and other expenditure, efficiency and optimal utilisation of various resources.

xi. The merger will bring both the entities under one roof to portray one face to all the parties with whom the Yash Group deals.

xii. The merger will result in better leveraging of facilities, infrastructure and resources.

xiii. Duplication of administrative functions together with the multiple record keeping will be eliminated, resulting in over-all reduction in expenditure.

xiv. The merger will result in significant reduction in multiplicity of legal and regulatory compliances which at present is required to be made separately by YCL as well as by the YPL.

xv. This merger will provide an opportunity to leverage assets and build a stronger sustainable business. It will provide an opportunity to fully leverage stronger asset capabilities, experience, expertise and infrastructure of both the companies and thus increased ability for promotion of business activities as well as for fund raising as may be required for business development.

xvi. The merger would lead to synergic benefits, efficiency of operations and management, rapid growth of the entity, optimum utilization of its resources and minimization of the administrative and operative costs.

xvii. The merger will result in a value creation for the shareholders and stakeholders of YCL and YPL as the combined amalgamated company will have improved efficiency, market share, financial structure, larger cash flows and stronger consolidated revenue and profitability.

xviii. The merger of YCL with YPL would result in consolidation of business activities of both the companies and will facilitate effective management of investments and synergies in operation.

xix. There is no likelihood that any shareholder or creditor or employee of YCL and YPL would be prejudiced as a result of the Scheme. Thus, the merger is in the interest of the shareholders, creditors and all other stakeholders of the companies and is not prejudicial to the interests of the concerned shareholders, creditors or the public at large.
